This text has poor contrast ratio making it hard to read. Here is some additional content that discusses important topics but is practically invisible to many users due to the poor contrast.

This section also has insufficient contrast, though not as severe as the previous one. It contains important information about our services and policies that would be difficult for many users to read.

This text is extremely small and difficult to read. It contains critical information about terms and conditions that users need to understand but would struggle to see.
Another section of hard-to-read text with slightly larger but still inadequate font size. This describes important user requirements and guidelines.
